As we “Embrace the Future,” I hope each of us will continue to realize the presence and power of God that has enabled us to accept the blessings we have received as well as the challenges that have and continue to influence our response to God’s continuing call to Mission and Ministry.

I first met the SSNDs when I enrolled at the College of Notre Dame of Maryland as a freshman in 1944. While there, I felt called to enter the Congregation. I entered at the beginning of my senior year.

My first mission assignment as an SSND was to St. Mary’s Annapolis – a place where growth opportunities were on the rise – enrollment – program development building expansion. I think my call was to include “Development Person” as part of my professional profile.

My second and final phase of active ministry was to the College of Notre Dame of Maryland – a period that spanned sixty-eight years of teaching and leadership involvement in Math and Science departments. The college was in a period of transition and transformation that helped it grow into the University that is today.

Sisters, let us continue to empower and support each other as we live and implement our Directional Statement “Love Gives Everything”. As Mother Theresa so often told us, “Whatever you do, do with love and then that becomes Divine Service.”

Jesse Louise Bochini was born on December 8, 1927 in Cohoes, N.Y., one of two daughters to Italian parents, Mrs. Iuvanita Ceccucci and Giuseppe Bochini. Sister Trinitas received her Bachelor of Arts from Notre Dame of Maryland University in 1949 in Mathematics with a minor in Education. She earned her Master of Arts in Physics from Catholic University of America in 1961 and her Doctor of Philosophy in 1977.
